COUNT YOUR BLISTERS WHILE YOU MAY . . .

One way to while away the miles on a walkathon is to bring your own entertainment—in this case, a guitar-plucking songster. These four were among about 75 daring souls who set out early today from Dr. Knox Secondary School for the long march to Vernon. Moccasin Miles, the walkathon title, will raise not only blisters, but cash for Resources for Native Progress, the Indian-Eskimo association now campaigning for funds in B.C. Although the walkathon did not draw near the hoped-for number of participants, those that were walking were still going strong at press time. Those that make it to Vernon will spend the night there, then turn around and walk home again—a total of 66 miles.—(Courier Photo)

'House The People' Sounds In Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A cry for more effective measures to house the average Canadian swept the back-benches of the Commons Friday as debate continued on new housing legislation.

Liberals joined Conservatives, New Democrats and Creditists in asking whether the measures will really help those who cannot afford housing now.

MPs said land costs, interest rates and high rent are pillaging the birthright of Canadians to a decent home at a fair cost.

"Are we doing all we can to aim our policy towards assisting that class of people below the subsistence level, or for that matter, towards the average wage earner?" asked Douglas Stewart (L—Okanagan-Kootenay).

"I think not," Mr. Stewart talked of rent control; Jack Bigg (PC—Pemb-na) of drastic measures to rein land profiteers and interest rates, and Steve Otto (L—York East) of a shake-up of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., the government's lending agency.

Grace McInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) told Robert Andras, minister without portfolio recently given responsibility for housing, he must ensure CMHC policies put the emphasis on low-cost public housing.

Mr. Otto said CMHC could lend more, cut legal costs and wipe out down payments.

Mr. Stewart said CMHC insistence on sewer and water lines makes it all but useless to rural residents and those in small communities.

Debate continues Monday on the bill to free interest rates—now 9½ per cent, the limit under a formula which ties it to the yield on long-term government bonds.

Long-Range Policy Needed

The bill raises the amount that may be borrowed under NHA mortgages, extends mortgage terms, and opens the way to more government investment in low-rental and limited-dividend housing.

Mr. Stewart said this is fine. But without any effective means to control rent, coupled with the high cost of money, average Canadians simply cannot enjoy reasonable accommodation.

Making his maiden speech, the B.C. member proposed a lower interest rate, elimination of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on building materials, development of leasehold land for home construction, modernization of CMHC and national building code standards, loans to municipalities to develop subdivisions, and other measures.

Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West) said the government must have a long-range housing policy if it is to continue fostering immigration.

Mr. Alexander and Mrs. MacInnis pressed the government to end its freeze on urban renewal projects.

Mr. Alexander said a section of downtown Hamilton has been razed but after six months of federal talk, Mr. Andras still said it would be several weeks before the freeze was ended.

Mr. Alexander and Mr. Bigg said the constitution cannot be used as a smoke-screen against action.

Any government at any level would be glad to co-operate with Ottawa on housing.

Seven Firemen Hurt In Blaze

TORONTO (CP) — Seven firemen suffered injuries or smoke poisoning Friday as they fought a fire that destroyed a warehouse and six adjoining shops at Dundas and Ontario streets in east-central Toronto.

Most seriously injured was Gary Harrold, 38, blown off a ladder by an explosion and struck by a falling brick wall. Hospital officials said his condition was satisfactory.

The fire was brought under control in two hours after it destroyed the Stephenson-Rubber Co. warehouse, a tire shop, a coin shop, a wholesale distributing firm, a restaurant, a Chinese bean sprout company and a barber shop. Fourteen second-storey apartments above the premises were also destroyed. All the occupants escaped.

Unionists Oppose Rand

TORONTO (CP) — Several thousand unionists from across Ontario marched on Queen's Park today to show their mass opposition to the Rand report on labor relations in Ontario.

They carried signs saying "Defeat Rand Now" and singing "Solidarity Forever."

The crowd fell far short of the 25,000 organizers had expected. The late Ivan C. Rand, a former justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, completed a two-year study last September which recommended sweeping changes in labor laws, including a tribunal which would have authority to intervene in all labor disputes.

The report also proposed that unions be denied protection against being sued in court, that strikes by public employees be prohibited, and the use of court injunctions to limit the size of picket lines.

The government has not indicated whether it plans legislation based on the report, but Labor Minister Dalton Bailey said he will not reject the report "out of hand."

POLLUTION WAR Minister Shifts Into High Gear

VICTORIA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Jack Davis stepped up the tempo of his crusade against water pollution Friday, this time identifying some British Columbia firms which he says are polluters.

Addressing the Lower Island Policy Workshop, he said polluters are in the same category as poor managers.

"I would refer to them as mavericks in an industrial society which is becoming more competent all the time."

"These polluters, these would-be managers, these anti-conservationists are vulnerable," he said.

They are vulnerable in the eyes of the public. But even more important to their egos, they are vulnerable to an internal industry and corporate view. They are in danger of losing their jobs."

The minister praised a Weyerhaeuser mill in Kamloops for its anti-pollution steps and said MacMillan Bloedel also deserves a pat on the back for its devotion.

"Though rather belated, to do something about the great volume of wood wastes which it has been dumping into the head of the Alberni Canal."

There are 11 pulp mills in British Columbia, most of them well-equipped and managed, but a few are "in difficulties with my department because they have not met our standards," he said.

The Columbia Cellulose mill yet available.

near Prince Rupert and Rayoniers mill at Port Alice both have poor flushing characteristics and their plant effluent has killed fish, he said.

The Prince Rupert situation was said to be under control "but old mills like the one at Port Alice . . . would cost at least $10,000,000 to clean up."

In the Prince George area, three new mills had exceeded the fisheries department's limits for suspended solids in their waste emissions. Wood fibre wastes had been found as far south as Mission, B.C., on the Fraser River.

"The Northwood Mill near Prince George has been the worst offender. Its effluent has killed young salmon in tests ever since it started up in 1966."

Five Americans have survived the crash of their Cessna 185 near Williams Lake Friday night.

A Canadian Forces search and rescue helicopter is attempting to land at the crash site near Nimpio Lake, about 130 miles west of here, to bring out the five.

Williams Lake is about 200 miles northeast of Vancouver. Details of the crash are not yet available.

Sino-Canadian Gulf Widens

OTTAWA (CP) — Each time External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp talks about exchanging diplomats with Peking, it appears to widen the gulf between the Canadian government and the Chinese Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek.

It is not that Mr. Sharp's recent statements have contained any new major disclosures, but in the eyes of some Chinese diplomats there are steadily-growing indications that Canada's relations with the Taiwan-based Nationalist government are of little importance in the current Canada-Peking talks.

When Mr. Sharp indicated Thursday that Canada is prepared to break off relations with Taiwan in the process of recognizing the Peking government, the Nationalist Chinese ambassador in Ottawa said this brings Canada-Taiwan relations to a "crisis."

Mr. Sharp had already said in the Commons that an exchange of diplomatic recognition between Canada and Peking would mean that Canada-Taiwan ties would "of course be affected."

While this was generally interpreted as meaning diplomatic ties would be broken, it none the less left some doubt about whether Canada would in fact go this far.

Sea Collision Kills Seaman

TRELLEBORG (AP) — One man was killed today when a Liberian tanker and a Norwegian ship collided and caught fire 12 miles south of this southern Swedish town.

Crew members on the burning tanker, the 71,068-ton Benedict, said they could handle the blaze and refused to abandon ship. A fire on the Norwegian ship, the 35,925-ton Høfjell off of Oslo, was extinguished soon after the collision.

The crash sent burning oil over a large area of sea and the tanker continued to leak. Preparations were being made on the south coast of Sweden to clean up any oil that might drift northward.

The victim was a Spanish crew member on the Norwegian ship, the captain said. No other casualties were reported.

Rescue ships and planes were sent to the area, but reported difficulty in locating the ships in the dense fog. Danish helicopters were standing by in Stockholm.

Labor Strife Eases At Coast

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Lower Mainland's rapidly mounting labor problems seemed bound for an even faster partial solution today following acceptance Friday of an agreement thrashed out between three municipalities in the metropolitan area and 2,500 municipal employees.

The municipal employees, more than half the estimated 4,000 workers on picket lines Thursday, agreed to a compromise offer giving them a high terminal rate in the last six months.

Inside and outside workers, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, required for weekend work in Vancouver and suburban Richmond and Burnaby were returning to work today.

The agreement gives them a series of wage adjustments and an across-the-board increase of five per cent in the first six months and a further 3½ per cent from July 1. Basic labor rates now will then be $3.02, one of the major goals of the union.

NATO Worried About Sequels To Canada's Cuts

MELVIN LAIRD . . . boost needed

Both U.S. And Britain Dubious On Future

LONDON (CP) — United States officials expressed concern Friday that Canada's plan to reduce its NATO strength in Europe could produce congressional pressure for a paring down of American military strength.

Anxiety about Canada's unilateral move, expressed at this week's NATO meeting in Brussels, also emerged as a persistent background theme at the two-day London meeting of the seven-power nuclear planning group, which ended Friday with a communique welcoming progress made. Canada is not a member of the group.

British Defence Minister Denis Healey, while echoing the American concern, gave a different reason. He feared a chain reaction that would lower the nuclear threshold.

Said Healey: "If the Canadians go through with their planned reductions, and even more if this leads to a chain reaction from other countries, NATO's conventional strength would fall, the nuclear threshold would fall, and the point at which nuclear weapons would be used would arise much earlier."

United States officials said they thought this would be true only if the Canadian action has a snowballing effect. One qualified source said he thought the nuclear threshold was lower a year ago than it now is.

American quarters were more worried about congressional opinion. They said Canada's force of about 10,000 men is less important numerically than symbolically. The U.S. had made good progress over the last year in improving its military capability, officials said, and they hope other allies would follow suit.

Britain and the U.S., the two nuclear NATO powers, emerged from the session with differing approaches.

Authoritative sources said Healey pressed the view that a small number of tactical nuclear weapons might have to be used first by the West to halt an attack by larger conventional forces of the Soviet-led Warsaw pact.

U.S. officials said Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird stressed instead the need to increase the combat readiness and effectiveness of conventional forces in the alliance.

TO REVIEW GUIDELINES
The guidelines, prepared by Britain and West Germany, are to be discussed when the group reconvenes in Washington in November.

Healey, who prepared the proposed guidelines with West German Defence Minister Gerhard Schröder, is understood to hold this view:

The Soviet Union is unlikely to unleash a nuclear attack first on Western Europe. But it might launch an attack of superior ground and air forces if it was convinced the West would not resort to nuclear weapons in reply.

The use of battlefield nuclear weapons would not change the course of battle or push the Russians back. But it would demonstrate, in Healey's view, that the West is resolved to use more powerful nuclear weapons if necessary.

Laird, too, was reliably described to have insisted that the NATO nuclear force, must be a credible threat. But he stressed also that NATO defences must also be a balanced threat.

Laird emphasized that in the last 16 months the U.S. had increased the combat readiness and effectiveness of its troops in Europe.

All Peace At Brenda

All is peace and production at Brenda Mines Ltd., the $60,000,000 development site near Peachland beset recently with strike hits.

Mine manager Gordon Montgomery, said today re-scheduling has begun and a "full settlement" has been effected with some 50 pre-production workers who were fired by the mine May 12 following a back-to-work ultimatum May 8. The discharged men, members of Tunnel and Rock Workers, local 168, and International Union of Operating Engineers, local 115, have been re-hired by the company, said Mr. Montgomery.

A report of a visit to the Valley this week by Williams Sands, deputy labor minister, remains unconfirmed at press time.

BUT HOUSEWIVES BUSY

split protests by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union. The union Friday called the boycott an unwarranted intrusion into the strike and said it had asked the federation not to start it, pending further negotiations. The federation will meet to launch the boycott Tuesday.

The 550 oil workers are continuing their own campaign to stop hot products from getting into industrial plants. There are reports that oil and gasoline will begin moving into the province from outside points Monday and the union said it would try to stop or at least reduce the flow.

Meanwhile Friday night business was heavy at grocery outlets as shoppers tried to get supplies before major stores involved in a lockout action against 700 meatcutters shut down. The meatcutters employed at Safeway, Super-Valu, Shop-Easy, Food Fair, High-Low and Lodom stores are already locked out and the stores have announced their intention to lock out grocery clerks at closing tonight.

And stores reported a large increase in the number of housewives purchasing flour to fortify the family shelves following the breakdown in negotiations between bakers and eight employers, including some of the supermarkets involved in the other disputes.

Clear Away The Cobwebs

MONTREAL (CP) — "The church should become a 'radical questioner of the status quo' and 'an authentic spokesman and lobby for the dispossessed,'" says a major Canadian church report on poverty released today.

It criticizes both the church and society for the "disgrace" of keeping nearly one-quarter of Canada's population "enslaved by economic and social want" because "they are considered more important than people."

"Christians personally and Christian churches as institutions must make deep and rapid changes in their ways of thinking and living," the report says. The report, Towards a Coalition for Development, was prepared by an eight-man committee of the Canadian Council of Churches and the Canadian Catholic Conference, which together represent 12 major churches and about 90 per cent of all Canadian Christians.

"The inequalities and injustices of which we are all victims exist because we are kept out of the centres of decision-making, where the society of the rich decide our future," the report says.

Romeo Maione of Montreal, one of the committee members and director of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace, said it is the first major report issued jointly by the two councils.

It recommends immediate measures this year to lay the groundwork for an all-out attack on poverty in 1970 by church agencies working together and using the report as a guideline.

This year local churches across Canada are urged to raise about $10,000,000 to aid deprived groups and self-help projects by earmarking about three to five per cent of their annual income.

Bryce May Now Be Working On His Last Federal Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — For more than 30 years, a disciple of John Maynard Keynes, the father of modern economic thought in the Western world, has been a powerful influence in the government of Canada.

He now may be working on his last federal budget. Although Finance Minister E. J. Benson makes the critical decisions and delivers the budget to Parliament next Tuesday night, the man who writes most of it and contributes most to it is Robert B. Bryce.

Mr. Bryce is expected to retire next year as deputy minister of finance, a post he has held since 1963.

Previously he held most of the other top spots in Ottawa's hierarchy—secretary to the cabinet under prime ministers Lester B. Pearson, John Diefenbaker and Louis St. Laurent, clerk of the Privy Council, secretary of the treasury board, and assistant deputy minister of finance.

Lord Keynes, English philosopher, mathematician, financier and patron of the arts as well as economist and teacher, taught Bob Bryce economics at Cambridge University in 1935.

INFLUENCE U.S.
Mr. Bryce already held a mining engineering degree from the University of Toronto, and went as a Commonwealth Fellow from Cambridge to Harvard University. There, he was widely credited with being one of the main influences in introducing Keynesian economics to the United States.

Keynes' economics are based on having government use its big tax and spending powers to maintain a high level of economic activity. His classic book, The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money, published in 1936, is a direct forerunner of the goals now set by most countries, including Canada: Full employment and price stability.

Keynes, who died in 1946, pointed the way out of the Great Depression. His theories, now are facing crucial tests in being applied to control the great booms rather than the depressions that are experienced periodically by the industrialized nations.

Applying Keynesian economics to the Canadian scene is made difficult by Canada's diverse regions and the constitutional division of responsibilities between the federal and provincial governments.

Some of these strains are showing up particularly now as Mr. Benson, with Bob Bryce's help, works on next week's budget.

SHOW OPPOSING TRENDS
One out of every 10 workers in the Atlantic provinces is unemployed this spring, but retail trade in that region is running well ahead of last year.

The Prairie provinces report the lowest unemployment rates in the country, but sales of such things as farm machinery are in a deep slump because of a shortage of cash among farmers. Huge stocks of unsold grain remain on the farm as another crop sprouts, and this shortage of cash may soon have repercussions in the big Prairie cities.

New residential and commercial construction in Ontario is booming so strongly the government fears the pressure it is putting on prices will be reflected in other parts of Canada.

How to juggle these regional difficulties by applying national tax and spending policies now is the central budget problem.

Gross national expenditure now is running at more than $70,000,000,000, but of this only $14,000,000,000 is spent by all governments on goods and services.

Now, Or Never Says Magistrate

Kelowna is facing a now or never alternative in solving traffic problems and curbing the rising accident rate, magistrate D. M. White said this week.

"Problems are mounting daily and unless they are met and solved now they are going to become insurmountable," he said.

Magistrate White who, with the Kelowna and District Safety Council, champions the idea of an extensive traffic control survey, said three major problems in the city and district are rapid growth, division of authority and piece meal action on safety.

Several Kelowna through streets carry into provincial government land and traffic problems on them must be taken to task by both authorities. Magistrate White believes a traffic survey would reveal to city officials where and when new traffic devices should be placed and outline areas of responsibility to Kelowna and the provincial government.

"The city is growing so tremendously that they (city officials) have been hitting and missing in the placing of control devices," he said.

"Somebody gets into a traffic accident on a street corner so they put up a stop sign. This is not the way it should be done."

The survey suggested would be done by a qualified engineer and would involve the entire city and part of the surrounding district.

Carried out on a six-month or more period, the survey would study and make recommendations on:

- Traffic regulations.
- Placing of traffic lights.

- Institution of one way streets if and where needed.
- Placing of traffic control signs.
- Placing of left turn and other restrictions.

In general, the magistrate said, the survey would "properly facilitate the movement of traffic in the city."

"The survey would consolidate the facts and enable the provincial government and the city to sit down in round table discussions and see where their responsibilities lay," he said.

Magistrate White cited the new highway between Benvenuto Road and Caroline Street as an example of an area where a survey might reveal accident-causing problems.

"This is a good section of road and there should not be accidents, yet there have been more than 300 accidents since it was opened. The survey could tell us why," he said.

First suggested in December, the survey has since been under consideration by city council.

Council basically approved the survey idea but was reluctant to commit taxpayers money before sounding out the provincial government and regional district for financial help.

The survey is expected to cost about $10,000.

Major opponent of the survey is Ald. E. R. Winter who said the survey would probably just confirm things already known to council.

He felt the money would be better spent on road improvements and other public works.

Get Together On Problems Advice To Welfare Families

Welfare recipients have been urged to band together to help solve their common problems and overcome the impersonality which has developed in city and provincial welfare services.

"At one time it was possible through more frequent contact, to develop rapport with our families, and problems were recognized and dealt with before they reached serious proportions," Tom Hamilton, Kelowna welfare supervisor said at a meeting this week.

"Now both the area population and our case loads have rapidly expanded," he said.

Mr. Hamilton spoke with Lionel Wace, district supervisor for the department of social welfare, at the second in a series of informal question and answer meetings with welfare recipients.

Mr. Wace urged recipients to group themselves together to discuss "mutual goals" and stressed the importance of active involvement in solving their own problems.

When asked about accommodation, he said his office does not have the facilities or staff to do the legwork required. He suggested recipients set up their own central registry or bureau. A number of specific monetary aids being made available were outlined, including a clothing bonus of $15 in June, a recreation aid of $15 in July for each child over six, a back to school bonus in August and a November to March $10-per-month bonus to help pay increased fuel costs.

Mr. Wace and Mr. Hamilton also pointed out that among other indirect aids were the head start program available in June, July and August, to help pre-schoolers catch up to more fortunate children.

A particular hardship, they said, for welfare cases requiring continuing medication is the $1 surcharge on all prescriptions. This can be eliminated by presenting a doctor's verification of need to the welfare office, which will order prescriptions through Vancouver.

The department will also file guarantees with fuel companies to qualify recipients for budget terms to equalize costs through the year.

Suggestions of the meeting and information were well received by recipients and another meeting has been scheduled for July.

Time For Action Is Now To Meet Recreation Needs

Unless action is taken, the $10,000 recreation study will be a "long time producing any results," the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission was told this week.

Jon MacKinnon, a member of the board of directors of the Central Okanagan Community Social Planning Council, urged the commission not to wait for groups to come forward with briefs and comments.

"I would strongly recommend that the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission activity reach out by organizing meetings to discuss the study and its recommendations," Mr. MacKinnon said.

"If they wait for groups to come to them the impact of the survey and its recommendations will be a long time producing any results," he said.

Mr. MacKinnon spoke at a public meeting of the Okanagan Community Social planning council and outlined several reasons for his belief.

He claimed those attending the meeting had little or no prior knowledge of the survey's contents, the difficulty involved in assimilating a massive technical report without some guidance or direction, and the $5 charge to obtain a copy for study purposes.

The Social Planning Council, said MacKinnon, should be the first to become thoroughly knowledgeable with its contents and then assist other organizations in seeing that recommendations are implemented.

The study falls in line with the business of the council which is to study areas of unmet needs; encourage co-operation and co-ordination of existing services; aid in establishing priorities for present and future development; and to involve the community as a whole in projects.

The detailed study, unveiled recently, examines Kelowna's recreation needs and makes recommendations for the future, including a series of priorities.

The biggest single item is the proposed sports complex, near the Dr. Knox Secondary School, will today and Sunday, the weather office predicts, with light winds tempering the expected high of 75 Sunday. Overnight low should be 45. High and low Friday was 67 and 39, with .07 inches of precipitation.

Numbering Successful

The Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce has had an overwhelming response to its house numbering project.

More than 100 Okanagan Mission and West Bannock residents took advantage of open office hours last weekend to obtain their house numbers from the Jaycees.

Wayne Schaad, the hard-working chairman of the project, said today "dozens of people" have been knocking on the office door since then, and that the office was open only for the one day.

Anyone in the area still wanting their house number should file by mail the lot information and their phone number to the Jaycees at Box 333. The young businessmen will research the application and phone the house number to the applicant.

Blonde Wins Rutland Title

Miss Lynn Stevens, a petite blonde, Rutland Secondary School student, was crowned Miss Rutland, second at coronation ceremonies at the Rutland Community Centre Friday.

The new reigning monarch received her royal headpiece from predecessor, Miss Virginia Husch. Chosen princess was Miss Peggy Hayashi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kaz Hayashi, RR 2, McKenzie Road. A youngster, Gail, was chosen May Queen at recent May Day celebrations. Miss Stevens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevens, RR 2, McKenzie Road.

The crowning ceremonies were followed by a reception in the Dillman Room for contestants, relatives and officials, topped by a ceremonial ball at 10 p.m., sponsored by the Rutland Kinsmen Club.

Last Classes On June 26

A mass exodus of about 9,800 high school and elementary students from School District 23 (Kelowna) will hit the highway vacation trail June 26 and scatter into the Sunny Okanagan valley until Sept. 2 when the reluctant return of the three Rs will officially take place.

Although the edifices of learning officially close June 27, some will open again July 2, for the annual arrival of summer students, using the extra time to bone-up on specific subjects.

The school district student total is comprised of 6,200 elementary pupils and 3,600 secondary school students.

Commander Visits City

Chief Commander H. S. Rees of the Canadian Power Squadron, Toronto, arrived in Kelowna Friday to view the second annual change of watch of the B.C. Interior District.

Vice-Commander Sam Crump is with his superior to watch the change which, with a round table discussion, election of officers and a banquet, make up the day's activities at the Kelowna Yacht Club.

Supporting local members are delegations from Calgary, Castlegar, Edmonton, Kamloops, Penticton, Vernon, Summerland and Shuswap.

Night At Opera On In Kelowna

A bright musical, Orpheus and the Underworld, is on tap tonight at the Kelowna Community Theatre beginning at 8 p.m.

Performed by the British Columbia Opera Ensemble of the Vancouver Opera Association, the production is under the auspices of the British Columbia Centennial Cultural Advisory Committee, with an assist from the Kelowna and District Arts Council. This is the third tour of the Vancouver ensemble.

Midnight Thieves Strip Hubcaps

Midnight auto thieves stripped off four hubcaps and an aerial from a car belonging to B. L. Bounds of Kelowna while it was parked in front of a local hotel Friday.

Police are investigating a single car accident at the Bernard and Pandosy intersection. A car driven by Joan Lillian Nichol of Burnaby sustained $150 damage.

There were no injuries reported.

INSPECTION

The annual inspection of 243 Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, will be held at Kelowna Armories Monday at 7:15 p.m. Officialing at the inspection will be Lt. Col. E. J. Trotter. The inspection will be followed by a presentation of awards at the cadet headquarters of the Royal Canadian Legion, 1633 Ellis St.

Jaycees Hear 'Call To Arms'

A dynamic "call to arms" by British Columbia Junior Chamber of Commerce members in industry, business, community and politics, was urged by Mrs. Grace McCarthy, minister without portfolio for the Vancouver, Little Mountain riding.

"You are all salesmen of free enterprise," the speaker declared in a hard-hitting, man-to-man pre-luncheon address at the Capri Friday.

As heirs to the North American system of free community exchange and "freedom granted by law," Jaycees must "learn to look at the bigger picture" and "learn to service people better," said the visiting M.L.A.

"That is the frame around your picture," she added, also extended around business and "your whole way of life."

"If the frame is destroyed, the picture is destroyed too," she added.

Stressing the need to "learn again," the speaker told her Jaycee convention audience to "quit assuming the old faiths and principles of business ethics are passed on," and continue to explain the fundamentals of honesty to businesses, organizations and seminars. She also urged her listeners to "stop assuming every Canadian understands the Canadian way of life," and when a baby is born, "it doesn't understand anything and isn't pre-conditioned to anything."

A newborn in Kelowna or Vancouver, she emphasized, "makes just as good a Communist as one born in Moscow." Character moulding depended on "what was learned" since they "all started from scratch." There were more people alive today than all the time since Adam and Eve. Drawing a population parallel in the province, Mrs. McCarthy said in less than 40 years hence, British Columbia's current 2,000,000 population will increase to 5,000,000.

The reference tied-in with a pilot community opportunity program the speaker initiated in Vancouver last September, and which has since been taken up by the provincial government, based on reducing welfare assistance recipients in the province. Using statistics for pungent emphasis, Mrs. McCarthy said last year's social welfare bill amounted to $103,000,000 as compared with $26,000,000 in 1952. One-third of the current social welfare outlay was spent on some 1,200 recipients in Vancouver alone.

Area's General Opinion; More Information Needed

South Pandosy residents and businessmen need more information before they can decide if they want to be part of Kelowna.

A random sampling of the area's occupants shows many people are not sure whether they would be in favor of one area businessman's demands to city council that South Pandosy be taken under the city's wing.

Among the businessmen, the major reaction to the plan is "what's in it for us."

"I think I'd probably be for it," Harold Johnston, owner-manager of Lakeview Market, 3059 Pandosy St., said. "If we could get the water and sewage facilities then joining the city would be the best thing."

"But I'd like to hear more about it," he added.

"I think it's inevitable," predicted Bert Jansen, owner of Jansen's Toggery, 2979 Pandosy St. Also a director for that zone of the Central Okanagan Regional District, he feels more information is needed.

"People here are saying if we have to pay for our own water supply anyway, why should we pay more taxes?"

The city's water pressure is weak at that end of Pandosy Street, he said, and the area would have to add its own water system, hooking up with the city if the boundary extension were accomplished.

A recent meeting of area residents produced "not much in favor of it," he said, adding that he will support whatever is in the best interests of the people in his zone.

"It's not at all clear yet," George Tining, proprietor of Tining's Drive-In, 3151 Lakeshore Rd., said. "I haven't thought much about it."

"I'd like to see something done one way or the other. Either the city or the regional district will have to provide water, and sewer facilities here," he added.

The regional district is now involved in studying the costs of putting in a new water system.

Another businessman, who did not want to have his name used, said a delay might be favorable. "If they could hold off for a few years, the department of highways might do something about fixing Pandosy Street."

"But in all fairness I think the area should belong to the city."

He added that increased taxes are the main disadvantage to joining Kelowna. The city services costs to homeowners—lights, garbage collection, water—would also increase, he pointed out.

More residents had stronger opinions—both for and against the scheme. Some said they hadn't thought much about it. The ones opposed to boundary extension were because they were satisfied with their own private water and sewage systems.

"I don't want it; we've voted it down before," said Mrs. J. C. Davy, 425 Newsom Ave. "Everything would go sky-high; land tax and everything."

"Our water's good; so is our septic tank. Why should we pay more?"

"I think it's better off as is."

Some Not Too Concerned

W. G. Shaw, 414 Cedar Ave., said "I'd really like to be inside; I'd like to have the water service and everything."

His water and sewage system is satisfactory now, he said, but added the area needs better service overall.

Higher taxes? "You can't get something for nothing," the retired gentleman said.

A Melkie Avenue resident, Mrs. B. D. St. George, said she and her husband are "not very interested in it right now."

"We've just built a house and would like to get a few years' use out of our septic tank before the taxes go up."

"But I know it will have to come eventually," she said she hoped the city would wait 10 years or so before annexing the area.

"What I'd like to know is how soon the city would provide us with a water system; if right away fine; if not, then forget it," said Mrs. A. J. Cade, 416 Groves Ave. "I guess there are advantages and disadvantages in joining the city."

In fact, the split of opinion among businessmen and residents reflected the split among city aldermen who discussed the proposal last Monday—some in favor, some against, some asking for more information.

Whatever the city's decision is, it will have require a feat of political agility to keep everyone in the Pandosy area happy when action is taken.

Regatta Swimming Events Revision Sought By Brow

A major revision of swimming events has been urged for the Kelowna International Regatta. Jack Brow, Kelowna's recreation director, told a Regatta executive meeting Thursday night some of the swimming events and trophies go back to 1909.

With big advances in swimming, the time has come for the Regatta's program to undergo a major change, said Mr. Brow. "To build swimming back to a high level during the next few years."

He suggested events for both summer and winter swim clubs, not just summer groups, as in past years.

Mr. Brow said there are problems with facilities at the 50-meter Ogopogo Pool, "but with a proper program we can get the top swimmers back."

He suggested all trophies be recalled so their usefulness and condition can be checked.

There was some indication synchronized swimming might be dropped, because of a lack of entries last year, but Mr. Brow favored keeping the event, possibly switching competition to the Saturday morning, to get more entries.

Kelowna Theatre Players Give Big Boost To Theatre

The musical production of the King and I, brought a $3,000 donation to city coffers Wednesday to be used in the general capital fund of the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The donations, from the profits of the Kelowna Theatre Players spring presentation, was given to the city by H. A. Pettman, founder of the organization.

An additional $300 was given to the Canadian School of Ballet as a student bursary toward the Banff Summer School of Fine Arts.

The production grossed $7,504 of which $6,440 was from ticket sales; $582 from program sales; $400 from program advertising and $172 from donations.

A total $5,291 was used for production of the play with the biggest single expenditure of $1,107 going for royalties, music and script.

Rental of sets and lighting cost $882; costumes, $502; theatre rental, $775; professional services of Gwen Lamont, $125; program, $799; posters, $114; program photography $93; make-up and hair styling, $106; theatre tickets, $70; sales promotion and opening night, $90; advertising, $247; presentation flowers, $124; miscellaneous paint and props, $50; general expense and rehearsal, $44; food and refreshments, $164; and bank charges, $12.

The net profit of $2,302 was divided between the city and the school of ballet and the remainder of the city donation was made up of carpeting purchased for the sets of the King and I, to be used in the lobby of the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The two-hour show of hymns, madrigals and folk songs, spiced with a touch of Broadway, brought about 700 to the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The 40-voice choir apparently sang their way into the audience's heart. "Kelowna has given us the most responsive audience the choir has had so far," Richard Long, the only choir member from Kelowna, said today.

The choir will give a concert Sunday in Vernon.

Vancouver Choir Gains Favor Here

A lively selection of sacred and secular music earned the Vancouver Boys' Choir critical favor Friday here at the group's first Interior B.C. concert.

The two-hour show of hymns, madrigals and folk songs, spiced with a touch of Broadway, brought about 700 to the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The 40-voice choir apparently sang their way into the audience's heart. "Kelowna has given us the most responsive audience the choir has had so far," Richard Long, the only choir member from Kelowna, said today.

The choir will give a concert Sunday in Vernon.

Kelowna Man Held In U.S.

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (Special)—A Kelowna man is in jail here after being arrested in connection with a drugstore burglary.

John Halliwell, 45, was arrested early Friday in Columbia Falls after a quantity of narcotics were reported stolen.

'This Is Your Responsibility'

"This is your responsibility," she told Jaycee listeners. Going down the list of Jaycee responsibilities, the speaker cited school dropouts and job retraining and rehabilitation. "One out of five people live in abject poverty," she added. Reiterating her welfare program project, she said social assistance recipients fell into broad categories, "people who want work and need help and those who have no intention of working."

As the population increased, she added, the second group would grow larger until it became a "cancer on society and social health greater than ever before."

There had been cases of social welfare encompassing three generations, with children "who have never seen their father get up in the morning to go to work."

"My pilot project proved there is a necessity and an answer," Mrs. McCarthy continued. Under government sponsorship, the program later became known as the alliance of businessmen and chance meeting in Victoria with provincial Jaycee president, Grant Johnston, she told the meeting, led to the possibility of participation in the program "in a good, logical, two-fisted way." She appealed to her audience to "work with us on a man-to-man basis."

Another Jaycee challenge as a salesman of free enterprise was "explaining to people that big business is not the enemy of the little man," and that only through mass production could conventional luxuries come within the scope of the average wage-earner.

Three Accidents Being Probed

Kelowna area highway patrol are investigating three accidents on district roads Friday.

There were no injuries in a three-car rear end collision between vehicles driven by Harvey Rosvold, 36, of Vernon, David Ingram, 21, also of Vernon and Lydon Switzer, 21, of Revelstoke.

There was an estimated $400 damage.

A two-car collision at the corner of Garner and Lewis did an estimated $600 damage to vehicles driven by Mae Katherine Gruending, Kelowna, and Roy Norman Sandy. The mishap occurred at 6:20 p.m.

No circumstances were released in the crash of a trailer truck driven by Kenneth Anderson, 28, on Highway 33 at Eight Mile Creek.

SEEN and HEARD

If luck charms are any indication then Kelowna is due for a bumper crop of tourists and business this season. Recently an anonymous female employee of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce pulled not one but two four-leaf clovers out of her lawn then wonders of wonders a double bonus good luck piece, a five-leaf clover. This should mean all kinds of good luck for Kelowna this year but when added up all those leaves total 13.

Kelowna people who "dig" archaeology can get in on the big Adams Lake archaeological dig as a volunteer worker this summer and perhaps pick up their own collection of Indian artifacts. Most work on the project will be carried out by volunteers, even rank amateurs, and the majority of artifacts will go to Okanagan college. Some should be distributed among the volunteers. Interested parties should contact Richard Ketchum at the college office.

Philip Stanley Bedell, 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bedell of Kelowna, graduated this semester from UBC with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering. A native of Kelowna and the youngest of Bedell's family, he is now working in Vancouver but expected to return to his home town for a holiday in June.

FOR REGATTA

S. M. Hodgson, commissioner of the Northwest Territories has accepted the appointment as honorary vice-commodore of the 63rd Kelowna International Regatta. Second World War service in the Royal Canadian Navy was mainly with escort frigate duty in the Atlantic. After the war he became active in the trade union movement, and among the many positions held in his career he has served as vice-president of Western Canadian Regional Council No. 1, IWA and was chairman of the B.C. Federation of Labor's international affairs committee from the time of its inception to the time of his resignation, and was a member of the Canadian Labor Congress standing committee on international affairs. He was a member of the publicity committee of the British Empire Games and served as a director on the B.C. Round Table Athletic Society.

JUNE 14

The Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its 33rd annual meeting and installation of officers at the Capri June 14. The banquet-dance will begin at 8 p.m.

Main Task Of Church 'Not To Make Protest'

There is a great deal of confusion today about the role of the Church in the current state of protest movements seeking civil rights, social justice and an end to war. Many Christians believe the Church ought to be deeply involved in efforts to rectify legal and political disadvantages, to eliminate poverty and slums and obstacles to education, and to bring a cessation to all armed conflicts.

On the other hand, there are some who dismiss the Church as antiquated, ineffective and without pertinence in the space age. To such critics, the chief efforts of the Church seem devoted to maintaining its own existence.

To determine whether such criticisms are justified one must first determine the proper role of the Church. This is best revealed in the scriptures. When Paul wrote to Christians throughout the Roman Empire, the chief social evil of the day was slavery, yet never once, did he inveigh against the custom.

Was Paul concerned? Did the sad condition of millions of slaves escape his attention? Not at all. When he wrote the Ephesians (6:5-9) he gave precise instructions to Christian slaves and Christian slave-owners on their relationship to each other. He did the same when writing the Colossians (3:22; 4:1) and the preachers Timothy (1 Tim. 6:1) and Titus (2:9). Similar advice was given by Peter to Christian Jews (1 Peter 2:18).

When Paul won the runaway slave Onesimus to Christ, he sent Onesimus back to his master Philemon, urging him to receive his errant slave as a brother in Christ and not to invoke the penalties which the law provided for such conduct. In spite of this, no one can accuse the Apostle of lacking in compassion for the oppressed.

Paul's Epistles are full of instructions for the care of the sick, the poor, the oppressed and the orphaned. But the primary theme of Paul's letters is the sinful nature of man and the power of Christ to transform that nature. Paul wanted to change men. Society would automatically reflect that change.

Of course the Church must be concerned with poverty, hunger, injustice and ignorance. Perhaps the very first hospital ever erected was built at Portus, near Rome, by a wealthy Christian in the late fourth century. Hundreds of others have followed in its wake.

For centuries the Church has been the chief instrument for the relief of human suffering. It has been in the forefront in the new, developing nations in medical work, education and the correction of social abuses.

These efforts have earned the gratitude of millions, but they are only secondary aspects of the Church's chief mission, the evangelization of the unreached masses for Christ. When the puzzled Christian keeps this primary object before him, it will be much easier for him to understand the role of the Church in today's troubled world.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ON DDF SHORT TAKES

Sir: I write to express my extreme disappointment with your editorial concerning the Dominion Drama Festival published on Wednesday, May 28, 1969. I consider it to be ironic that this editorial was published on the same day that the CBC carried the news coverage program concerning the Dominion Drama Festival.

I would like to restrict my comments to two aspects of your editorial. The first concerns the experimental nature of the productions during the Dominion Drama Festival. Surely in a time when man is attempting to walk on the moon and all facets of society are undergoing the most painful forms of soul-searching concerning values and standards, the theatre should not be exempt.

If the searching for new forms of dramatic expression which was evident in last week's productions is not allowed to manifest itself in an event such as the Dominion Drama Festival, then where are the future innovators in this vital field to find expression?

I deplore your statement that "Most of us will be content to sit in our little backwoods town and enjoy such things as the King and I" and I would suggest that there are many people who view the Dominion Drama Festival and feel that the courage shown in the plays presented is to be applauded even though the plays were not always understood.

There are new forms of drama and it is only through experimentation and courage that we shall find those forms which will be as lasting and as truly creative as the works of Shakespeare and Bernard Shaw.

My second point concerns the effect of the Dominion Drama Festival upon Kelowna. As anyone who watched the CBC program Wednesday night will know, Kelowna has never received such TV coverage before and this came about as a direct result of the tremendous work of the local committee.

The large amount of work involved is obvious as soon as one contemplates the task of organizing an event such as the Dominion Drama Festival and to suggest that the committee was remiss in not extending invitations to some of the social functions to some half a dozen people who have contributed to the development of the theatre, is in my personal opinion, an expression of an extremely parochial attitude.

I would suggest that the thanks of the whole community are in order to Dr. John Bennett and his committee for their efforts in bringing a very successful Dominion Drama Festival to the City of Kelowna.

Yours truly,

P. FULKER
1255 Bernard Ave., Kelowna

DISAPPOINTED

Sir: I was very disappointed in your editorial on Wednesday, May 28. You are suggesting that the DDF has not brought enjoyment, enlightenment or inspiration. This is your personal point of view and not shared by the majority as you report to be the case. You have shown in your editorial that the people of Kelowna are intolerant, ignorant, unimaginative and old.

May I suggest, sir, that you examine again your yardstick.

The week of DDF has been an enlightenment and inspiration to all the people who have the capacity to be enlightened. I am sure that because of the DDF Kelowna will never be the same again and neither will the DDF, because that is what DDF is all about.

Yours truly,

ULDIS ARAJS,
R.R. 1, Westbank.

MEN OF TOMORROW

Sir: I would like to take this opportunity to say how much my husband and I enjoyed the rally which was held in the City Park on May 7. The Cubs and their leaders deserve much praise. The program was varied, speedy and well-attended by the parents. There was much excitement in the air.

We, in Peachland, also would like to thank the Venturers, also a part of the school movement, who organized and took part in our May Day, May 24. The whole day went off beautifully and the boys should indeed be very proud.

These groups are our men of tomorrow!

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) JEFFREY KNOX TODD
R.R. 1, Peachland.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Now She Knows About Hyperkinetic Child

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am one of the mothers who now knows about the "hyperkinetic child," but did not know 20 years ago.

I believe my daughter could still benefit from treatment. She is 24 and a high school teacher. Her enthusiasm is endless, but I've seen her almost drop from exhaustion. She seems unable to slow down or relax. She bites her finger nails and always has. This, as well as restlessness, seems to be a family trait.

When I suggest that she see a doctor about her "nerves," she says that sedation puts her to sleep or makes her drowsy and listless.

She realizes she cannot relax, is a worrier, even if she has to borrow something to worry about. She would accept treatment if reassured that it would still allow her to be alert enough to carry on her work. Can you suggest a starting place?—C.R.

Yes. Important—and unrecognized for too long—is the problem of the hyperkinetic child. It is, I doubt that your daughter was hyperkinetic. Restless, nervous, a compulsive worker, a worrier, yes. But she could—and can—focus her energy into useful channels, which the hyperkinetic child cannot.

Nail-biting and restlessness can be a "family trait" acquired by observation and listening to the words "nerves" or "nervous" when young. Things we learn in childhood are hard to shed.

But another suspicion occurs to me. Does your daughter have an overactive thyroid? She has all the typical outward signs. Therefore, I suggest that she see a physician to find out whether that, or any other physical condition, may have a bearing on her trouble.

Simple sedation can be helpful but it is not curative, and I can understand your daughter's reluctance to try to rely on that.

An overactive thyroid—if that proves to be a factor—can be treated very efficiently. If no physical cause is found, she might consider seeing a psychiatrist. This does not imply any mental or emotional illness. Rather, my implication is that she can teach her how to constrain that exhausting impulse to work until she drops.

The nail-biting, by the way, frequently indicates a nagging sense of frustration, possibly insecurity or a feeling of inadequacy in areas quite apart from her teaching talents. Her own physician, indeed, might be able to help her in this respect.

Yes, I think she should have medical help. Not sedatives.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does an "acid ash diet" mean that citrus fruit and fruit juices should be limited?—M.

Yes. The "ash" is what is left over after you have digested your food. While citrus fruit is, of course, acidulous (citric acid), after it is digested the "ash" is alkaline.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very painful big toe which has been diagnosed as osteoporosis of the feet. I am told there is no cure. In your opinion, is this correct?—E.M.T.

Osteoporosis is a thinning of the bones—a gradual loss of calcium. It is, frankly, a slow and difficult condition to treat. Making sure of adequate calcium in the diet, plus hormone treatment to increase calcium absorption into the bones, plus such exercise as can be tolerated, is the usual means of helping the condition, but it is not rapid.

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 31, 1969 . . .

A state of emergency was declared in British Columbia 21 years ago today—in 1948—as troops were mobilized to help when the Fraser River flooded, sweeping through dikes and leaving 2,400 families homeless. When the floods had finally subsided, some $17,000,000 worth of damage had been done, more than 3,000 homes and barns were damaged and many broken from their foundations. 37,000 acres had been flooded, 18,000 damaged by seepage, and more than 100 bridges were washed out or damaged.

1969—Samuel Pepys ended his diary.

1941—British forces evacuated Crete.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—Italy was a trap for the German army. In the Roman Campagna, United States planes bombed French and German targets. British troops of the 8th Army advanced south of Rome to capture four villages.

Second World War

June 1, 1969 . . .

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—Prime Minister Curtin of Australia in an extemporaneous speech to the Canadian House of Commons urged closer cooperation to promote world unity. Australian troops took Gura in British New Guinea—a clear-cut victory was announced for Prime Minister Eamon de Valera in the Irish general election.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Young Overlander Had Vivid Life

By ART GRAY

When the Overlanders set out on their long trek from Fort Garry on the Red River, to the gold fields of the Cariboo, the youngest member of the group was a very small boy of just over two years of age. He was James Armstrong Schubert, born at St. Paul, Minn., on March 6, 1860. He was the second son; an older brother was christened Augustus, after the father. The mother was Irish, having emigrated from County Down to Massachusetts in 1850. As a young man, James Schubert was apprenticed to a building firm in Victoria, but only stayed there a year, returning to the north Okanagan to take up land where the town of Armstrong now stands. For a time he drove stage from Kamloops to Okanagan Mission. He had many adventures, some scary and some amusing. On one occasion, when ascending a steep, icy hill, the stage skidded and slid backwards down the hill, dragging the terrified horses with it.

On another occasion, on the same hill, a keg of nails fell off and broke open and scattered nails on the road. Nails were precious in those days, and the passengers had to alight and assist in retrieving as many of the nails as possible before the stage proceeded. The exposure to cold weather in winter and dust in summer brought on an attack of tuberculosis, and Schubert departed for Santa Barbara, Calif., to recover his health.

HEALTH BETTER

When he returned, restored to health, he settled in Vernon, where he built a house, the first one on the street, and the street was later named Schubert Street after him. Now, of course, just a number. He is said to have been instrumental in getting the first post office opened in Vernon. Up until that time the mail for that area was brought by stage to O'Keefe's "Okanagan" post office, where the stage waited 15 minutes while the postmaster put up the mail for points further south. He then sorted the local mail. Complaints being received over the situation, an inspector was sent in, and as a result a post office was opened in the new townsite at Priests' Valley. Schubert is credited with having suggested to the inspector that a better name for the post office than Priests' Valley would be "Vernon", after the Vernon brothers, owners of the Coldstream Ranch, and members of the group promoting the new townsite.

Schubert was later made the road superintendent for the Okanagan Valley, and with the aid of David Lloyd-Jones, built the first road on the west side of the lake, from Penikese to Trout Creek (Summerland). Only a few hundred dollars was voted for the project, it mainly consisted of widening an existing Indian trail, high up above the lake. While road superintendent he also was responsible for building the first swing bridge across Okanagan River and with a gang of men with no modern equipment, built a road along the east shore of Vaseux Lake to connect with the mining town of Fairview and the U.S. border. When an enormous rock face barred the way on Vaseux Lake they ran the road underneath it, and this overhanging rock wall was a famous landmark on the highway for many years.

Rattlesnakes were a plague in this section, and the story is told of a newcomer, who refused to sleep in a tent for fear of the rattlers, and made a bunk of saplings, but woke up one cold morning to find a rattler coiled on his chest. He immediately asked for his time and departed.

Schubert's health broke down again at this time and he had to be transported to hospital at Kamloops. After he recovered his strength, he decided to open a store in the little settlement of Penikese. His was the second store to open there, and down through the years it contained the post office, then a baker's shop, became the first high school, then the home of the Penikese Herald, a fruit packing house and then a flour and feed store. When he came to Penikese there were only two children of school age in the area, but soon Mr. Roadhouse moved in with his family, and Mr. Schubert brought his own boy to live with him, so it became possible to open a school, the first in the district, in 1902.

At that time there was rail-road connection between Penikese and any other town, and all supplies came down the lake by steamboat. The freight for the south was transferred to wagons and sent over the winding roads to the various settlements. Keremeos, Princeton, Fairview and Hedley.

The land where the town of Hedley now stands was surveyed by a townsite by R. H. Parkinson, P.L.S., father of Kelowna's mayor, Dick Parkinson, and son-in-law Judge J. C. Haynes. Osoyoos, C. A. R. Lambly, government agent at Fairview, brother of Robert Lambly of Kelowna, held an auction sale of townsite lots in 1904.

In August that year Schubert bought out the Kirby and Hind store and moved it into the townsite, on a lot near the bridge. The Welby stage line came into being, running from Penikese to Hedley. Schubert spent 10 years in Hedley and then acquired another store at Tulameen, further up the Similkameen watershed, the Tulameen being a tributary, joining the main stream, where Princeton is located. At Tulameen Schubert went in for placer mining. He left the store in Hedley in the hands of W. C. Lyall as manager. On the upper Tulameen there is a deep hole still called "Schubert's Pool" where an attempt was made to divert the river to facilitate gold mining operations.

Later on Schubert became interested in the breeding of Jersey cattle and brought in some purebred stock from the Fraser Valley to improve his strain of milk cows in the area. It is stated that the cattle raising indirectly led to his demise. Over exertion in undertaking to build a stock of hay for the increased herd brought on an attack of his old lung trouble, and he died at Tulameen on March 17, 1938. A few years before he had interested himself in obtaining markers for the graves of old timers buried in a cemetery in that area. Now he in turn was laid to rest in the quiet beauty of the same Tulameen hillside cemetery.

CANADA'S STORY

Thomas Spence Created Own Prairie Republic

By BOB BOWMAN

When Queen Victoria was proclaimed that the Dominion of Canada would be born on July 1, 1867, an effort was being made to establish a republic on the prairies. Thomas Spence moved to Portage in 1867, after doing survey work in the Red River area. He opened a small retail store and invited as many people as possible to meet him there on May 31, 1867. Then he revealed his plan to create the Republic of Manitoba whose boundaries appeared to be from Portage to the Rockies. Spence had enough friends to get himself elected president of the republic, and in turn he appointed his friends as members of the governing council, and they also doubled as policemen and tax collectors. Things went fairly well until a shoemaker named McPherson refused to pay his taxes because he claimed that they were being spent on liquor for Spence and his councillors. So he was arrested and taken to Spence's store which was also the prison. On the way McPherson shouted to his friends to help him.

That night there was a trial at the store. Spence was acting as judge and prosecutor and in walked McPherson's friends. A shot was fired into the ceiling and in the excitement the only lamp was knocked on the floor and went out. When some order was restored and another lamp lit, Spence was found to be hiding under a table pleading that he had a wife and children to support.

McPherson was set free and Spence left for Lake Manitoba to get into the salt business.

Later he became quite respectable and served as clerk of the Manitoba Council, census commissioner for the Northwest Territories, and ended his days in the land office in Edmonton. Spence was partly responsible for Manitoba getting its name. Louis Riel knew about the ill-fated republic, but liked its name.

The federal government was going to call the new province Assiniboia, but Riel insisted on Manitoba, and that is how the name was chosen.

Reviewing Welfare Policy

(Victoria Times)

Common sense supports the federal government's review of welfare policy to channel a larger share of available benefits toward those who are most in need. The area involved in the review is naturally sensitive. It can be argued that economies should be practised in a number of other departments before changes are considered in social services and relief for the poor. But the large amounts of money involved in the welfare and social programs place these policies well up on the list of items on which savings might be made.

If there are limits to the funds that can be distributed to assist Canadian children who would otherwise lack necessities—and there must be a limit of some kind—what justification can be advanced for giving funds to those who require no assistance? This is the issue Health and Welfare Minister John Munro raises when he questions the relevance of paying the family allowance to high-income families.

On the basis of past debates, some criticism may be expected regarding the manner in which the government decides who should receive this form of help. Almost inevitably the "means test" cry will be raised. But if that phrase still carries the unhappy connotations applied to it in other years, there seems to be a simple solution.

The government each year conducts in effect a means test among Canadians to determine what tax should be paid on each individual's income. This establishes a record to indicate, in rough form, those who do not require supplementary assistance. Other considerations must be taken into account, but this could be a useful method of reducing the opprobrium so frequently attached to means-test investigations.

Canadians will make little complaint against a policy of social assistance which gives only to those in need.

Trend To The Right

(Orillia Packet and Times)

The noisy nihilism of the colleges and universities is awakening a profound resentment in a public which is paying out more millions than ever before in history to provide education to all; it is a resentment which must inevitably seek to circumscribe the more lunatic aspects of educational innovation. In short, while it is not yet so advanced nor so marked as in other countries where pressures, economic and social, are greater, there is an evident trend to the right beginning to manifest itself in Canada; a trend still masked by the essential liberal outlook of government and the universities and the aggressively "progressive" attitudes of most commentators in press and TV, but none the less profound and significant for all of that. The pendulum is on the swing.

the Alberta-British Columbia District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Other ministers from around the Valley will be taking part. The first Lutheran congregation here was organized in 1927 and has been increasing in membership since then.

Scots Home Rule

EDINBURGH (AP) — The Church of Scotland ended a 10-day General Assembly Wednesday night during which it recommended home rule for Scotland but continued association with England and Wales in the United Kingdom.

The Queen attended five assembly sessions including the opening and closing ones. The first attendance by a monarch in more than 360 years, it was part of a campaign to identify the Royal Family more closely with Scotland's national aspirations.

In other major decisions the assembly: —Condemned all forms of chemical and biological warfare and urged the government to initiate non-proliferation treaties concerning them in the United Nations.

—Dubbed as "disastrous" the new constitutional proposals of the Ian Smith government in Rhodesia "which would deny a majority of the people a full share in the government of their land."

—Instructed its moral welfare commission to look into the use of alcoholic wine at communion because of its possible effect on alcoholics attending communion services.

—Urged that divorce be granted on the sole ground of breakdown of marriage and asked the British government to reform the divorce law of Scotland accordingly.

—Gave the go-ahead to planning for a union of the two leading Presbyterian churches—the Church of Scotland and the United Free Church—with the Anglicans, Congregationalists, Methodists and Church of Christ. Observers felt that approval by the Church of Scotland removed a big hurdle but that objections still were likely from the Anglicans.

Miscellaneous Shower For Sandra Wittich

WESTBANK (Special) — A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. W. Truitt in Westbank on Tuesday evening for Sandra Wittich. Streamers and bells decorated a beautiful mirror and fireplace and made a striking effect for the throne of the honored guest. A box, decorated in pink and blue crepe paper and wedding bells and the words Best Wishes, on one side and Sharon and Ian on the other, was piled with gifts and the overflow was placed in a clothes basket, which was another gift.

Sitting beside Sharon and helping with the unwrapping were her sisters, Sandra on one side and Elva on the other. Other honored guests were Sharon's mother Mrs. Wittich, Ian's mother Mrs. Hunter of Summerland and Ian's grandmother, Mrs. Wright from North Berwick, Scotland.

Mrs. Amy Windt and her friend Mrs. Woods had made beautiful corsages which were presented to the wedding group. While the gifts were being unwrapped and passed around for all to admire, Karen Truitt fashioned a bewitching hat from the bows off the packages. When all the gifts had been seen and stored away, Sharon donned the hat and thanked her friends and Mrs. Truitt took pictures of everyone in the room.

HELLO KELOWNA

Included in the group of 30 persons from Hawaii, Japan and Hong-Kong who recently visited Kelowna as guests of the provincial department of travel industry, were three representatives of the press, who were enjoying their first visit in Kelowna, although they had previously visited Vancouver. Relaxing a minute are, left to right, Hatsuko

Mrs. Grace McCarthy Advises Jaycettes To Think Positive

"Start thinking positively," Mrs. Grace McCarthy, minister without portfolio in the provincial legislature, and member for Vancouver Little Mountain riding, told 117 women attending the Jaycette luncheon at the Aquatic Friday noon. The slim dynamic woman from Vancouver, who is also a mother and a businesswoman, said, too often all of us think negatively about our province, our country and the United States.

Mrs. McCarthy told the group, who came from many parts of the province that we tend to think of riots and protests and reports of poverty in the United States rather than the wonderful achievements of the past 15 years.

Recalling an article she had read in a well-known magazine, on the achievement of the United States, she pointed out that there are actually fewer people in the poverty bracket than ever before and more people in the middle income level than previously. Accomplishments in the field of education, she said, has brought about the situation whereby people in Europe are sending their children to the U.S.A. because of the enviable academic excellence.

Mrs. McCarthy, who is keenly interested in parks and recreation, tourism and health and welfare, urged all women to accept more responsibility in the life of the community and the province and the nation. She said not all women could become politicians, but they could accept responsibility in other ways. Political life and family life cannot be separated, she said.

It is possible to have a strong voice and an effective voice in the community and the Jaycettes through their organization, do have this outlet. Mrs. McCarthy hit out at all women, by adding that women do not always do the things they should in politics and community.

As an example she cited the recent avalanche of protest letters regarding the removal of the Don Messer program from CBC. She had no quarrel with this, adding that she, too, enjoyed the Canadian show, but she asked, "Where were the letters from parents on the other programs and commercials on television that are undermining our children's way of life? Why don't they speak up?"

Commercially, she said, use of a certain brand of hair cream as the way to success are an insult to our intelligence, but where are the letters? Where are we? Do you write letters to the editor? Do you write letters to your MPs, your MLAs, she asked. Do you take an active part?

Mrs. McCarthy who has successfully operated a floral business for 23 years at the coast, gave the women an insight into her duties in the cabinet, as a minister without portfolio. When three women were elected in 1967, the premier added them to the cabinet, because he felt a need for women to be represented in the affairs of the province and he gave them a great deal of latitude, with the result that they are able to follow the things they are interested in. Mrs. McCarthy, who has a lengthy record of achievements in the fields of parks and recreation and health and welfare, followed these interests into the broader provincial field.

Her pride in the province of British Columbia was evident as she spoke of her many trips throughout the country, where she said, she is constantly astounded by the miles and miles of highways connecting, not only all the cities, but all the little communities and every resident, so that they may all enjoy the good life that is so abundant in British Columbia.

Head table guests at the luncheon in addition to the guest speaker, were: Mrs. Richard Sharples, district representative of the Okanagan Mainline; Mrs. Alf Dunn, past provincial representative, New Westminster; June Chiba, manager of the Grass Shack, who presented a fashion show for the out-of-town visitors and members; Mrs. Robert Bain, president of the Kelowna Jaycettes; Mrs. Richard Picket, provincial representative, Victoria; Mrs. William Knutson, a past president of the Kelowna Jaycettes; Mrs. Grant Johnston, past provincial representative; Mrs. Wilbur Wostradowski, past district representative; Mrs. Monty Aldous, wife of the honorary provincial president; Mrs. John Kennedy, district representative, Lower Mainland and Mrs. Ross Wightman, who was mistress of ceremonies and also convention chairman.

Jaycettes were present from Victoria, Prince George, Vancouver, Richmond, Kamloops, Cranbrook, Trail, Penticton, Whitehorse, Dawson Creek, Cloverdale, Nelson and Kimberley as well as Kelowna, and Chilliwack, Langley and Abbotsford.

Album judges present who were introduced were Mrs. Fred Charman, and Mrs. Kelly Gordon. Unable to be present were album judges, Mrs. Ed Dickens and Mrs. Lea Dyck.

Also introduced were the incoming district representatives, Mrs. Anita Lenger, Lower Mainland; Mrs. John Devlin, Vancouver Island and Powell River; Mrs. Wendy Dennill, North Coast-Skeena; Mrs. Allan Thorlaxson, Okanagan Mainline; Mrs. Terry Moreland, Central B.C. and Yukon and Mrs. William Johnson, wife of a past president of Washington State Jaycees.

Two years ago my husband died at the age of 66. I am 63. Our children are married and have homes of their own. Not one of the children has any interest in helping me run the farm, yet they all screamed like eagles when I told them I was tired and seriously considering an offer to sell.

The children are sentimental about the farm, Ann, and I can understand their feelings, but I'm tired. Please tell me what to do, I'll look in the Hutchinson News for your advice and I'll follow it.—Farm Widow.

Dear Widow: The children's sentimentality is not a good enough reason to keep a tired widow in the harness after 40 years of hard work. Tell the kids you're selling the farm so you can enjoy the fruits of your labors. Then do it.

ANN LANDERS

Keep An Inventory Of Your Man, Girls

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you suggested that when a woman gets fed up with her husband she should sit down with a pen and a sheet of paper and divide the paper into two columns. In one column she should list her husband's desirable qualities. In the other column she should list his undesirable qualities. I did this last night and it worked wonders. Here's the way it added up:

UNDESIRABLE QUALITIES
Hates to visit my relatives; does so only under pressure. Never remembers birthdays or anniversaries.

Loathes Christmas and claims Mother's Day is a racket. Insists on watching his favorite programs on TV. (To heck with mine.) Stubborn about admitting it when he is wrong.

ADMIRABLE QUALITIES
Faithful to me 100 per cent—never looks at other women or goes anywhere without me. Personal habits—excellent. Very neat. Makes a good living. Steady worker.

Showers Honor Judy Meunier

A surprise shower honoring Judy Meunier, whose wedding to Dale Chisholm is an event of June 7, was held at the home of Mrs. Dwayne Armenau, assisted by Mrs. Mary Howls and Mrs. Peggy Denter. The bride was seated in a decorated chair and presented with a corsage. Gifts were presented in a replica of a tool box, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Roland Meunier, fashioned a hat of the bows. The groom-to-be's mother, Mrs. Emma Chisholm was also present.

Miss Meunier was also honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. Dave Stoller, with Mrs. Ronald Hobson and Shirley Kants as co-hostesses. After a few games the honored guest modeled a hat fashioned from the bows, by her mother. Among the 14 ladies present was the groom's mother, Mrs. Emma Chisholm. Refreshments were served at both parties.

Andretti Claims Victory Over Indy Competition

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Mario Andretti grinned through his painful burn blisters like a happy Italian wail and said he never relaxed Friday in his run-away victory in the rich Indianapolis 500-mile race.

"You never have it won until they give you the checkered flag," said the small, smiling Andretti, who brought the first 500 triumph to hard-luck owner Andy Granatelli.

Granatelli, who saw his car roll to a stop within sight of the finish line while leading each of the past two years, said:

"I didn't get confident until he was 100 feet from the flag and then I knew he could coast in."

Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., hit a wall in a fiery crash in practice only nine days ago and still bore the burns across his face.

"It's kind of itchy. But I wasn't going to let anything bother me out there today," he said. The 5-foot-6 driver sped to victory with a record speed of 156.867 miles per hour. He won by four miles over runner-up Dan Gurney.

OPENED ARMS

Granatelli, who has been trying to win the 500 for 23 years and who stirred controversy with his turbine racers the past two years, met Andretti in victory lane with his arms wide open.

"He said I'm a sloppy kisser," Granatelli confided later.

Andretti said he was in trouble twice in the classic, once at the very start when his radiator began boiling, then later when he went into a sideways slide on a back stretch turn while far into the lead with only 125 miles left in the race.

"I got caught napping," An-dretti said. But he pulled out of the skid without trouble. Heat gave Andretti his most persistent problem. He charged past pole-sitter A. J. Foyt Jr. to seize the lead on the first turn of the first lap, but had to drop back after 15 miles.

The water temperature went right up to 225 degrees," An-dretti said. "I had to slow to cool it a bit I figured that was it right there."

Andretti blamed the overheating on the official ruling which forbade a change in his car to install a new water cooler after qualifications and which prompted him to threaten to quit in the squabble at mid-week.

Experience Is Wise Teacher As Walter Henry Can Prove

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Walter Henry proved Friday night at the Canadian amateur boxing championships that experience is far more useful than youthful enthusiasm.

The sporting-goods salesman from Barrie, Ont., put his experience to use in recording a three-round decision over Joe Cook, 16, of Vancouver to win the 112-pound title.

"That's the fourth consecutive time I've won this crown and eight times in all," said Henry, 28, in his dressing room at the Garden City Arena.

"The kid gave me a good fight. He did a lot of moving, but I did all the punching."

Henry, who came to Canada from Ireland in the mid-1950s, has represented Canada at the Olympics, the Pan-American Games and the British Empire Games.

"He's the best fighter I've ever fought," said Cook, "but I think I could do better next time."

Henry was one of many successful boxers from Eastern Canada. Eight of them defeated their Western opponents during the 12-bout card, watched by about 1,000 spectators. All bouts were scheduled for three rounds, with each round scored on a 20-point must system. The winner of a round was given an automatic 20 points, with the loser receiving 19 or less.

Other winners from the east were Denis Groleau and Ghislain Pelletier of Montreal, John and Gary Summerhayes of Brantford, Ont., Jean Champagne of Asbestos, Que., Robert Bozic of Toronto and Pierre Deschenes of Quebec.

Western winners were Denis Belair of Edmonton, Neil Austin, Ken Hicks and Pat O'Reilly, all of Vancouver.

The most entertaining bout came when O'Reilly won a decision against Aldo Carrelli of Toronto to capture the 165-pound title. O'Reilly, 18, and Carrelli, 19, took turns battering each other and both had difficulty standing up by the end of the fight.

Hicks, 19, posted the only knockout of the night when he won the 125-pound crown against Jose Martinez, 17, of Montreal at 1:15 of the final round.

An aggressive attack earned Bozic, 18, the heavyweight championship with a decision over Ken Turner, 21, of Winnipeg.

The 198-pound Bozic had his Winnipeg opponent reeling under a barrage of punches in the second round.

Gary Summerhayes, 20, outpointed Darryl Olsen, 18, of Vancouver to win the 178-pound division.

Pelletier, 21, gained a decision over Don Young, 17, of Vancouver to capture the 156-pound crown.

The 147-pound title went to Champagne, 19, in a decision over Mike Frank, 16, of Calgary in one of the card's most boring matches.

John Summerhayes, Gary's 17-year-old brother, outpointed Ken MacDonald, 20, of Hastings, B.C., to win the 133-pound championship.

Skiing Program Sought By CASA

WINNIPEG (CP)—A national cross-country ski team and introduction of cross-country skiing to school curriculums were proposed Friday by a Canadian Amateur Ski Association committee.

Cross-country chairman Ivan Servold of Devon, Alta., said "we intend to have a full men's and women's team in the 1970 games," the world championships scheduled for Czechoslovakia in mid-February.

"It will be the first time that Canada has fielded full teams," Servold said.

Trials for the cross-country teams will begin at Sault Ste. Marie during the Canadian championships Jan. 26-Feb. 1 and a head coach, still to be hired, will begin training in August, he said.

The committee's school proposal comes before the CASA annual general meeting today calling for a national brief to be distributed to CASA divisions which could meet with provincial school authorities.

NUMBERS GROWING

The committee also recommended a full-time administrator for cross-country skiing because of the increase "in the number of competitors, the number of people involved in it and the scope of the program."

In other developments:

—The federal government said it can provide the CASA with $267,000 this year, $40,000 less than the association had hoped for;

—Bjorger Pettersen of Inuvik, N.W.T., was named coach of the women's national cross-country team;

—It was announced that the Canadian junior cross-country championships will be held at La Riviere in southern Manitoba Feb. 12-15;

—Easter week next year was slated for Top of the World championship cross-country skiing at Inuvik, N.W.T., and will be rated on the International Ski Federation calendar.

IT'S BEEN 50 YEARS SINCE A CHICAGO CUBS PITCHER COULD PUT TOGETHER 3 CONSECUTIVE 20-WIN SEASONS—

BUT FERGIE JENKINS MAY BE THE MAN TO END THE DROUGHT. THE BIG RIGHT-HANDER (6-5) WON AN EVEN 20 EACH OF THE PAST 2 SEASONS. THOUGH HE HAS WALLOWED HIS FIRST TWO TIMES OUT THIS YEAR HE SOON REGAINED HIS 20-WIN LOOK WITH A COUPLE OF SHUTOUTS.

Hitting Power Earns A Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates and Bobby Knoop of Chicago White Sox exploded in a display of bat power Friday, but both had to settle for a split.

The Pirates amassed 32 hits in a doubleheader against Houston but dropped the second game 9-6 after gaining a 9-3 victory in the opener and stopping the Astros' winning streak at 10.

Knoop, a 178 hitter, rapped two home runs in the first game as the White Sox fell to Washington Senators 5-4 in 10 innings. But then he clouted a three-run homer in the nightcap that powered the Sox to an 8-5 decision.

The Pirates stopped Houston with the help of the season's first triple play. John Edwards grounded into the triple play in the fourth inning, and in the bottom of the inning the Pirates erupted for three runs to go ahead 4-3.

Matty Alou and Bill Mazeroski, who had three hits apiece in each game, drove in two of the runs.

The Pirates collected 15 hits in the nightcap, but the Astros won it with three runs in the ninth, the first two on Edwards' bases-loaded single.

THROW WENT WILD

Knoop's first-game efforts were wiped out in the 10th inning as Mike Epstein raced home from second when Catcher Ed Herrmann picked up Ed Stroud's infield single and threw it wild.

But in the second contest, Knoop capped a five-run rally in the sixth inning with a three-run homer. The blast snapped a 5-3 tie.

Chicago Cubs broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning of their game with Atlanta Braves and pulled out a 2-0 victory in the first game between the National League's divisional leaders.

The Cubs scored both of their runs in the seventh, one on Don Kessinger's grounder and the other on a single by Glenn Beckert. Bill Hands blanked the Braves on five hits.

In the afternoon's only other single game, Detroit Tigers defeated Seattle Pilots 8-5. Norm Cash drove in three Tiger runs with a homer and single and Jim Northrup knocked in two with a homer and double.

YANKEES WIN TWO

New York Yankees pushed over two runs in the 15th inning and hung on to nip Kansas City Royals 5-4 for a doubleheader sweep. Bobby Murcer cracked a homer, double and single behind Fritz Peterson's five-hit pitching in the Yankees' 4-2 first game victory. Run-scoring singles by Jerry Kenney and Roy White in the 15th decided the nightcap.

George Lauzerique tossed a five-hitter for his first major league victory as Oakland Athletics trimmed Cleveland 5-1 after the Indians took the doubleheader opener 9-2 with an eight-run burst in the first inning. Jose Cardenal singled to open the big inning and capped it with a grand slam homer, sending Luis Tiant on the way to his first triumph after seven losses.

Philadelphia Phillies routed Los Angeles Dodgers 13-6 behind homers by Richie Allen, Mike Ryan, Larry Hinkle and Deron Johnson in one of six night games.

Rod Gaspar's first homer in the majors touched off a three-run eighth-inning rally that vaulted New York Mets past San Francisco Giants 4-3. Ron Swoboda's seventh-inning home was the first Met hit off Mike McCormick.

San Diego Padres nipped Montreal Expos 3-2 on a 10th-inning homer by rookie John Sipin, extending the Expos' losing streak to 14 games.

DECIDES THE OUTCOME

Tony Conigliaro's broken bat single in the sixth inning delivered the deciding run as Boston Red Sox topped Minnesota's Twins 3-2 behind Jim Lonborg.

Relief pitcher Clay Carroll drilled a two-out homer off Bob Gibson in the 10th inning to carry Cincinnati Reds past St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 for their eighth consecutive victory.

Plastic Lacrosse Stick Starts Trend In Sport

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sports are moving into the plastic age, although there still are some areas where development is being held up.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the professional Eastern Lacrosse Association recently introduced a plastic stick to the game and a manufacturer is planning to hit the market this summer with a plastic stick of another design.

Morley Kells, general manager of the Maple Leafs, says the plastic stick in lacrosse could do for the game what the glass-fibre pole did for pole vaulting.

Because it has more "whip" than the traditional hickory wood hook, Kells says the new stick will add considerably to the speed with which the rubber ball can be thrown—estimated under ideal conditions at upwards of 80 miles an hour.

"The goaltenders may quit," he jokes, referring to his belief that the greater accuracy and speed produced by the plastic stick will result in more goals being scored.

Tom Nease, president of Canadian Cycle and Motor Co. Ltd., said in an interview that while his company plans on marketing "the finest lacrosse stick ever made" this summer, it still was having trouble fabricating hockey sticks of any material other than wood.

"About the only thing you can guarantee about them," he said, "is that they will break."

CCM's plastic lacrosse stick, already patented and approved by the Canadian Lacrosse Association, was developed by a pair of Oshawa, Ont., engineers, Frank Milligan and Dan Kocho, in conjunction with CCM's developmental staff.

Nease said the stick being developed by Kells "is definitely not ours."

"But we're very interested in it."

"Our basic stick is plastic, although the webbing is the traditional gut and rawhide thing."

"It has the same feel and balance of the wooden stick and, more important, it has a life expectancy far longer than the wooden stick. It's far more rugged and durable."

But this is far from the case in trying to develop a hockey stick of something other than the highly perishable traditional wood now used.

"The trouble is trying to match the requirements of weight, dimension and strength over a length of 53 inches," says Nease.

"We've tried a good many materials over the last few years, and always with disappointing failure."

"It's an area we're deeply interested in and are continuing to investigate."

He said that, could a plastic hockey stick be successfully developed, he knows of no hockey regulation against its use.

"The dimensions rather than the material are the only factors regulated regarding hockey sticks."

"But the hard part is trying to fit mass-produced sticks to the individual needs of players."

"It used to be just length, weight and the angle of the blade on the ice that had to be considered."

"Now, with the curved stick, you go from the extremes used by people like Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita to the straight blade used by Jean Beliveau."

Nease said National Hockey League players had been used in testing sticks of various materials under simulated playing conditions, and that none had approved the product.

"The one thing we haven't been able to build into these sticks is feel. It's that intangible feeling of an NHL hockey player for the stick that is right for him."

"I've been simply amazed at the accuracy of their estimates of the weights of sticks. They can tell just by picking one up that it is an ounce heavier than another one. And they're invariably right."

"And there's no means of mass-producing or programming into a computer how an individual stick feels to an individual player."

Elder Shakes Off Incident And Shares Lead At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Elder, one of the few Negroes on the pro golf tour, Friday shook off the effect of what he called "the first incident I've had on tour" and moved into a tie with Bert Yancey for the second-round lead in the Memphis Open with a 36-hole total of 131.

Elder, 32, and Yancey each had 67s, three under par on the 6,485-yard Colonial Country Club course.

The slim Elder, gunning for his first tour victory in this $150,000 event, said the incident occurred on the par five 13th.

"My tee shot hit a tree and dropped into the left rough," Elder said, speaking softly and obviously still upset. "A couple of kids picked up the ball and threw it into a hedge."

"We could see it from the tee. I was fortunate enough to have Terry Dill stand up for me on it. I called for a ruling and got a free drop."

"After that there was a lot of hollering from the gallery, from people who didn't think I was entitled to a drop. I was pretty hot for a while, but then things calmed down. The whole thing lasted about 20 minutes. Both kids and adults were yelling at me."

He said, however, the taunts from the crowd were not racial in nature.

Just one stroke back at 132 were lanky Dale Douglas, with a second-round 66; John Lotz, who had a 68; Hale Irwin, with the day's best round, 65, and veteran Dan Sikes, 66.

Gary Player and Miller Barber each had a 67 and were tied at 133.

Lee Trevino, the U.S. open champion, and Gene Littler, the season's leading money-winner, still were much in contention at 134, each taking a 69.

They were tied with Dave Hill, 67; Lou Graham, 69, and Charles Coody, 68.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver shot 68 for a 137 total and Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg had 71-72-143.

Trepanier Residents Rap Policy On Old Highway

PEACHLAND (Special) — A delegation of Trepanier residents attended the regular meeting of the Peachland Municipal Council Wednesday to protest council's ruling that all lots coming up for subdivision which border the Lakeshore Road in Trepanier must now show the road 40 feet wide on all new plans.

At present this road is not shown on maps of this area, although it has been in existence for at least 60 years, being the former lakeshore highway in the early days.

Mrs. John Milroy questioned just what purpose this road serves as "no one uses it".

Mrs. Clarence Hendricks said it is only a speedway for juveniles. Mayor Thwaite answered these questions by saying: "this is an access for other Trepanier residents to the beach, and even though not shown on maps is a legal municipal road as public money has been spent on it, and that under no circumstances will it be closed by council."

As to why this policy is now being put into effect, he stated council could have a survey done anytime, but this method of having surveys of roads not dedicated has proved practical in other areas of the municipality, he cited Beach Avenue S as an example.

And this is a cheaper way of doing things, so saving the taxpayers' money he added.

Mr. Hendricks said the road is now only about 16 feet of travelled surface, and he feels a 40 foot road allowance too much. Ald. Fletcher in charge of the roads department said that in future all roads will have to be 40 feet in the municipality and council are planning not only for today but the future.

Mrs. Greg Burns, who was also attending, stated this is not needed as the road is not used by more than a very few persons and should be closed. Council took the stand that this road will be kept open and a requirement of any subdivision of property adjoining it will be that the road is shown on plans to be registered in Kamloops.

Attending council was Horst Geisler, to inform council that he has arranged to have a survey of his property done and asked that council make a decision on the piece of dedicated road shown on maps running through his property, but which because of terrain has never been constructed. Clerk was instructed to draw up a stop-up-and-closing bylaw on this piece of road, and the land will be given to Mr. Geisler to incorporate into his property, the same as has been done in other cases of this nature.

An application for an access off Highway 97 which is to be submitted to the Highways Department by A. Gove of Beach Avenue was discussed. Council had no objections to the granting of this access in the municipality.

Bylaw 464 the Parks and Recreation Bylaw 1969 was amended as recommended by the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Education Department where it had been submitted, and was reconsidered and finally passed. Mayor Thwaite stated the next move on the part of council must be to call a meeting with the present recreation commission and interested residents as soon as can be arranged, to set up the new committee as set up under this bylaw.

Bylaw 471 which was given first to third reading at the last council meeting was discussed, this bylaw is a bylaw to tax mobile homes under the new municipal act. Council decided to leave this bylaw tabled until more information is made available.

Plans of distribution lines submitted for council's approval by Inland Natural Gas for Blue Waters, Buyley Avenue and York Street and Gumow Road were given council's approval in principle.

A request from the social services branch for the use of an office in the municipal building one half day a week was discussed. The office now used by the South Okanagan health nurse would be available at times requested. Council will rent the office as requested at a rent of $25 per month.

A request was read from Bill Manning, president of the newly formed, Peachland Riding Club. Mr. Manning suggested that when the municipal dump is moved as is now being planned by council, that council allow the club use of the property for club activities. Council agreed to grant this usage when it is no longer needed, and cleaned up.

The Peachland May Day celebrations were mentioned and council unanimously commended the members of the Venturer's club for the excellent job they did organizing this celebration. Ald. Stan Elstone in charge of the community hall also proposed a vote of thanks to the boys for the good clean up of the hall undertaken by the boys after the celebration.

Notice was received from the highway's department that the application submitted by Neil Witt for rezoning of property in Trepanier has not been approved by the department.

Weed control was discussed, a letter will be sent to all owners of vacant lots in the municipality asking that lots be cleared of weeds and rubbish.

Ald. Stan Elstone reported that most of the improvements have been done at the swim bay and other improvements have been ordered.

Ald. George Fletcher reported that his department is working on speed signs and road signs being placed and that naming of roads has been started. He also suggested that a bylaw be written that will control the building of access roads off municipal roads. This bylaw would make it law to have these accesses approved by council before construction, as some lately have been built without culverts, and filling in ditches causing wash-outs.

Clerk reported that tax notices will be mailed out this week. Council instructed that a break down of the 1969 mill rate be enclosed and sent out with these notices.

News Events At Westbank

WESTBANK (Special) — The Westside Squares dance club accepted the invitation of the Hix and Chix square dance club of Spokane, to join them at their club on May 24. About 30 dancers, including their caller Ray Fredrickson and his wife Jean, attended.

The evening commenced by meeting at the home of Clare and Ed Stephan for coffee, then out to Green Bluff Grange hall for a buffet style supper, followed by dancing to the lively calling of Ed until midnight. The evening was concluded by two members opening their homes to after parties, which proves once again that square dancing is fun whether at local club dances or away from home.

It was the aquatic and public beach, the Westbank Centennial project, that was so badly damaged on Monday by the storms, not the Yacht Club, as was reported. A lot of help from the community clubs will be required if the beach and facilities are to be made usable for the summer.

The sail past for 1969 at the Westbank Yacht Club will be held on June 7 at 4 p.m.

Expect a lot of good things when you fly East with Air Canada.

Like a change of scenery. Inside the airplane. And here's why. Air Canada stewardesses are wearing bright and beautiful new uniforms. Their working wardrobe consists of A-line mini-dresses in three basic colours: Jet Red, Sonic White and Galaxy Blue. All the dresses can be worn interchangeably with their winter red and summer blue coats. And as you can see, they're smart and swiny outfits.

What you'll also see are happier stewardesses. (After all, can you think of any young girl who doesn't like to look chic?) Which means happier, better-looking-after-passengers. And that's exactly what we're trying to achieve. Always. All ways. For you.

Next time you head across Canada, come with Air Canada and watch the girls go by — in high style. Call your travel agent and reserve your seat for the fashion show.
